ABSTRACT (Continue on reverse side if necessary and identify by block number) This report addresses the development of programs for increasing efficiency in operation of Army libraries to meet expanding demands for services with static budgets. Army libraries are described in terms of type, resources and expenditures. Problems of current operational patterns are identified. The report recommends establishment of an Army Libraries Management Office (ALMO) which would determine goals, objectives, and priorities for Army libraries, develop uniform standards for operation and support, and develop and

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL CENTER

This work has been developed as a study for Department of the Army under the direction of The Adjutant General. However, the content does not necessarily reflect the position or policy of that Agency, and no official endorsement of these materials should be inferred.

DIRECTORY OF US ARMY LIBRARIES

This directory is composed of the address list compiled for the Army Library Study, September 1975 - July 1976. The address list was assembled from lists provided by the staff librarians of the various major commands, and by the chief librarians for headquarters agencies. It was then checked against the listing for the Federal Library Survey, 1972, and against Army accountability listings. Several addresses were listed later from information uncovered during the study.

Service outlets indicated refer to the total number of libraries within the system, and includes the main library.

The names of library director/operating official who responded to the questionnaire (which was part of the Army Library Study) are listed, and current insofar as possible. Further listing of all GS-1410 series librarians is presented as of July 1976. Operating directors of libraries who are in other than the GS-1410 series are noted and identified with an asterisk (*). Their series or classification is listed where known.

Arrangement of this directory is by type of library, then by Command/ Agency. Telephone numbers are AUTOVON unless otherwise indicated.

INFORMATION ANALYSIS CENTERS

It was discovered that most information analysis centers do not properly fall within definition of "library", only one reported a collection of its own. The analysis center as well as the technical library and other elements are components of a Technical Information Center. Questionnaires were sent to seven Information Analysis Centers listed.

FIELD LAW LIBRARIES

There are 267 Army Field Law Libraries. The Judge Advocate General in conjunction with The Army Library, Pentagon, formulates all policies governing the establishment and content of the field law libraries. Almost all materials for these libraries are centrally procured through The Army Library, Pentagon (ANRAL). Libraries are currently governed by AR 1-115. (9 Jan 76)

Some of these collections are presently professionally administered by librarians of other types of libraries, and data was sometimes included in reports for these libraries, as noted.

USAREUR LIBRARY SYSTEMS/NETWORK

USAREUR was in the midst of a re-organization during the time-frame of the study. The number of active Army post libraries has reduced from 174 reported in the Federal Library Survey of 1972 to the current address list of 110 libraries (38 main, 72 branch libraries) and 165 field collections. Branch libraries in Europe are essentially autonomous operating units.

The libraries are served by a Command Librarian, a Library Service Center, and a Command Reference Center.

US ARMY LIBRARIES, USAEIGHT

The post libraries serving Korea are located organizationally in the Recreation Services Agency. The libraries are served by a Command Librarian, a Library Service Center, and a Command Reference Center (see Area Central). There are 12 main libraries, 33 branch libraries and 9 field libraries for a total of 51 libraries. Branch libraries in Korea are essentially autonomous operating units.
